

D.C. to Squeeze BART Commuters

Residents in the Crocker, Vista Grande and Westlake areas of Daly City may find it easier to park in front of their homes by April 1.

Daly City's Council Monday approved an ordinance establishing three preferential parking districts in the city.

Under the ordinance, which was unanimously approved, residents of the neighborhoods will be issued stickers for their vehicles allowing the cars to be parked in the district between 5 and 10 a.m.

All vehicles parked without special stickers during the height of the commuter traffic will face stiff fines.

The council adopted the ordinance after a year of study and about 45 minutes of discussion Monday.

About 40 residents of the three census tract areas, who had been mailed notices of the impending action, listened to the discussion. Most sat quietly.

The ordinance, designed to keep commuter traffic from the BART station on John Daly Boulevard from causing parking problems in nearby neighborhoods, probably will not be enforced before April.

Ed Lyons, administrative assistant, said "several hundred signs" will be ordered Tuesday. After they arrive, they will be installed and proper notice given before Daly City police begin ticketing cars.

He said $18,400 has been budgeted for signs.

In a related action, the council voted to remove all existing parking restrictions in the affected neighborhoods. The restrictions placed two-hour limits on much street parking.

Several residents praised Councilman Victor Kyriakias, who chaired a preferential parking committee. Most said they approve of the action.

"This is a very happy day for the Original Daly City Protective Association," its chairman, Conrad Pavellas, said. "I feel this is a great stride forward."

Pavellas reminded the council that the ODCPA had circulated petitions to get legal action in the affected areas.

A Wilshire Court resident, Louis McDermott, said his area has no problem with commuter parking. He said he wonders why the restrictions are needed.

Kyriakias said the committee believes that restrictions would cause a further commuter parking penetration of Westlake than now exists.

The three preferential parking zones include:

WESTLAKE — Ten streets, bounded by Forest Grove and Wilshire Court.

VISTA GRANDE — About 20 streets, bounded by Westlake Avenue and Bepler Street.

CROCKER — Six streets in the Lincoln Park Club-house area.

Pacifica Happy With Garbage Stance

By TERRY DAVENPORT
Pacifica City Council members had high hopes for their garbage dilemma Monday.

Councilmen Nick Gust and Mark Savage were praised for their roles in recent negotiations with Daly City. That city had sought Pacifica's participation in building a transfer station at Mussel Rock, but Pacifica pulled out. Daly City decided to build the transfer station anyway.

Savage said Pacifica "appears to have the best of all possible worlds."

He explained that the city has the option of seeing whether its own Coastside Scavenger Co. can handle its garbage or, if that plan proves unworkable, Pacifica later can enter into an agreement with Daly City.

Savage pointed out that the cost per household will be an additional $1 per month. "I expected twice that much," he said.

Gust declared that Coastside Scavenger has agreed to forego profit for its additional trucking. (Instead of dumping at Mussel Rock, Coastside will take garbage down to San Mateo County's new dump near Half Moon Bay.)

"We gained what we wanted. Daly City insisted on a 7 percent profit," Gust said.

Mario Torregino of Coastside Scavenger said he will hold to the new agreement for six months and will have his books audited during the seventh month. After that, he remarked, he will consider changing the rate — possibly cutting it.

Councilman Stanley Farber pointed out that Torregino is not losing revenue from the franchise.

"He is giving up his additional profits," he said. Farber said Daly City will allow Pacifica to use the completed transfer station at Mussel Rock at the going rate.

City Manager Donald Weidner hastened to add that there is an important qualification to that commitment: Pacifica must give Daly City six to eight months advance warning if it wants to use Mussel Rock.

Representing Keep Pacifica Scenic, Ruth Paige said she was grateful to Gust and Savage for "hanging in there" during negotiations with Daly City.

But Mrs. Paige asked why people in Pacifica and Daly City pay the highest garbage rates in the county, aside from Hillsborough.

She also said, "Daly City

Scavenger Co. does not have any capital to invest (in a transfer station). The capital comes from the rate payers—they pay for that building. Yet Daly City Scavenger turns around and gets the profit. That is the basic ripoff."

The council is expected to make a decision soon on its garbage dilemma.

Despite Pacifica Pullout, Daly City Sticks With Transfer Station Decision

By NANCY STANCILL

"You do not have the public confidence of many on this issue," Daly City resident William Wade warned the City Council Monday night.

But the council acted unanimously to reaffirm its agreement to construct the Mussel Rock Transfer Station.

Wade was one of several residents expressing concern that Daly City's council was planning to proceed with transfer station construction without an agreement from Pacifica to use the garbage compacting facility.

"It has upset a lot of homeowners that Pacifica saw reason for pulling out of this," Wade continued.

The Westlake homeowner said residents are dubious that City Manager David Rowe's plan to offset the loss of Pacifica's garbage with public dumping was well thought out.

However, Wade urged the council to show that its action "is the best possible arrangement to dispose of solid waste. Get it all out in the open."

Before the council executed its agreements with the Daly City Scavenger Co. and Skyline Land Co. for future operation and construction of the $1 million Coastside facility, it studied some cost estimates by Rowe.

Rowe estimated that a minimum of 80 tons of public dumping per week at the facility would bring in $234,000 and would keep the estimated disposal cost of garbage per ton at $17.93. With Pacifica's Coastside Scavenger Co. bringing 70 tons daily to be processed at the transfer station, the cost per ton estimate was $17.95.

With public dumping, Daly City homeowners and builders would be allowed to take household and garden refuse to the transfer station for salvaging, compacting and hauling to the Ox Mountain dump near Half Moon Bay.

Rowe emphasized that the cost of garbage service to Daly City residents will not go up more than 25 percent under the estimates. Service currently costs $6.90 every two months.

The city manager also said the cost of garbage disposal under an alternate plan (to enter into a long-term contract with the San Francisco Transfer Station) would be only "3 or 4 cents a month" less than building a transfer station.

Capital costs for the facility will be $128,360 per year in amortization, with Daly City having an option to acquire the station from the Skyline Land Co. for $6,000 in the 21st year of payments.

The Skyline Land Co. is a scavenger partnership which will construct the station for the Daly City Scavenger Co. to operate.

Paul Hupf, attorney for the scavenger company, said the firm "must oppose any further delay" because its construction bids were due to expire Tuesday.

Hupf was responding to a suggestion by Councilman William Schumacher and several residents that the city meet with representatives of homeowner associations within the next few days to explain Pacifica's decision not to sign a user agreement.

Mayor Albert Teglia said Pacifica and Daly City were unable to reach agreements on two points. Pacifica wanted to hold the scavenger company operator to a 5 percent profit, while Daly City held out for 7 percent allowable profit.

The other point, he said, was the salary allowed a scavenger partner. Daly City said it would allow $36,000, while Pacifica wanted to hold the line at $33,000.

However, both Teglia and Rowe said talks with Pacifica's Coastside Scavenger Co. representatives have indicated that the city will end up transporting at least part of its garbage to the Mussel Rock facility.

"Our feeling is that Pacifica will be at the door on the first day," Teglia said.

September Song For Five Schools

Five Pacifica schools could be closed in September, Laguna Salada School District Superintendent James Brien disclosed Monday night.

Over 100 persons were in the district office meeting room when Brien listed Portola, Westview, Valle-Mar, Pedro Valley and Crespi Schools.

He said, "You could close all at once, or you could close none."

Brien suggested that the 238 students at Portola School in San Bruno be bused to another district school in San Bruno, Pacific Heights. And the 300 Westview pupils could be sent to San Andreas School, although such a decision would require an attendance boundary change," Brien said.

The 185 "regular" students at Valle-Mar could be shifted to Sharp Park School, and the balance could be relocated to Pacific Manor and in other district facilities with space for the opportunity class and special programs.

Transfer of 300 Pedro Valley students to Cabrillo and Linda Mar facilities would not require busing, Brien explained. Crespi students could be shifted to Oddstad, Ortega and Sanchez Schools and the Coastside Christian School's lease at Crespi would have to be terminated, he said.

Trustee Curtis Landers said he would expand the list to include Ortega, Pacific Heights, Pacific Manor, San Andreas, Sanchez and Sharp Park Schools.

The City of Pacifica has expressed interest in Valle-Mar and Crespi for a city office/corporation yard complex. The facilities would be leased.

Some Breeze, Others Stall in Pacifica

Plans to streamline Pacifica's City Hall telephone system breezed through the City Council Monday, but proposals to revamp the sewage treatment plant and a major city department were hotly disputed.

The council voted unanimously to spend $2,500 to enter San Mateo County's Centrex telephone system. The system will replace Pacifica's central city number with about 40 numbers, which may be dialed direct on July 1.

Advantages of the Centrex system include an estimated cost savings of $352 per month on calls in San Mateo, San Francisco and Santa Clara counties, direct dialing to all county offices without charge, toll-free calls to Sacramento offices and automatic cost accounting on multi-message unit and toll calls.

The council debated long and loud over the issue of authorizing $90,000 for repairs to the sewage treatment plant. City Engineer Ernest Renner explained that costs had increased and more problems had been discovered since $55,000 originally was authorized for the repairs in 1975.

"What assurance do we have that the firm that is doing this now will do it right?" asked Councilman Stanley Farber. He wanted to know if the divers making the repairs could discover any construction mistakes made by the original builder.

Plant operator Bill McDonald said the plan called for some evaluation of the design of the sewage treatment plant.

A resident, Ellie McGuire, said she thought the city should be able to make repairs using plans already drawn, to save money.

"It's just a matter of maintenance," she declared, Farber agreed.

But City Manager Donald Weidner presented the problem as a choice between repeating the design and replacing parts or trying to rethink what would do the job to possibly avoid future problems.

The council authorized only the engineering services for the repair project at a cost of up to $21,150. It will discuss the rest of the plan later.

More sparks flew when the council discussed a proposal by Albert St. Cyr, director of Community Development and Services, that would add engineering services at a cost of $8,084 through June 30.

Four council members said they feel uneasy about Robert Ironside's continuing role in the department as planning administrator. Ironside is revising the city's general plan at the same time he fills the city job three days a week.

Although the council agreed that Ironside is doing an excellent job, members pointed out that his dual positions could make it difficult to be objective.

"We're paying him $36,000 a year. We could hire someone else for that price," said Councilman Nick Gust.

Weidner said the figure is $30,000 and that Pacifica doesn't need a full-time planning administrator. "We have been considering contracting with a company like Ironside & Associates," he said.

Weidner agreed to report

DC Approves New Consulting Contract

Connerly and Associates, a housing rehabilitation consulting firm has started a new nine-month contract with Daly City.

The firm was hired last fall to launch a federally-funded loan program in Daly City. The new contract was approved by Daly City Council this week.

The firm will be paid up to $42,000 to process loans and get construction complete on homes in the city's older sections.

Connerly will work with the city's rehabilitation loan officer, Barbara Hill, and other members of the Housing and Community Development Act Task Force.

About 70 Daly City homeowners have expressed interest in the housing fix-up program, which started in November and had some construction begin in December.

Original Daly City Protective Association Directors Ernie Pezzola and Conrad Pavellas, in a continuation of criticism directed at the city staff's handling of the program, said they fear progress will continue to be slow unless the council works directly with the consultant.

Teachers, SSF District Set Further Talks

Negotiators in the South San Francisco Unified School District have met for some 16 hours so far, trying to reach agreement on a teachers' contract for 1978-79.

Representatives of the teachers and the district have scheduled two additional meetings next Monday and Tuesday (Jan. 16-17), from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day, to continue talks.

In part, teachers are seeking an 11 percent salary increase, dental, vision and prescription drug coverage, in addition to an increase in medical and life insurance coverage, and a reduction in class size.

Teachers want kindergarten class size reduced from 30 to 24 students, grades one through six from 26 to 24, and grades seven through 12 from 30 to 25.

In addition, teachers are seeking a preparation period for fourth-, fifth-, and sixth-grade teachers; seniority basis of voluntary transfer, and binding arbitration as a method of settling contract disputes.

The district is offering a 2 per cent salary increase, a 2.875 percent increase to the State Teachers Retirement Fund, Workers Compensation and Unemployment Insurance, and class sizes that range from 30 pupils in grades one through six to an average of 33 students in grades seven through 12.

Representing the district at the bargaining table are attorney Lee Patterson of Patterson and Taggart; Mae Evans, director of elementary education; Thomas Gaffney, assistant superintendent in charge of instruction; Sheldon Winston, director of secondary education; and Joseph Smith, associate superintendent.

The teachers' unit consists of John Herron, president of the South San Francisco Classroom Teachers Association; Barbara Olds, South San Francisco High School teacher; John Secor, staff consultant; Barbara Barth, El Camino High School teacher; Marjorie Pitkin, Foxridge Elementary teacher, and Frankie Watkins, Los Cerritos Elementary teacher.

SSF Rehab Meet

A meeting to discuss the availability of low interest rehabilitation loans for moderate to low income homeowners in downtown South San Francisco has been scheduled for tonight in the large conference room at City Hall, 400 Grand Ave.

The meeting will begin at 7:30, sponsored by the city and San Mateo County.

South San Francisco contracts with the county to provide services for low interest loans to help fix up deteriorating housing in the city's downtown core area.

The general boundaries of the Housing and Community Development Target Area are Airport Boulevard on the east, Railroad Avenue on the south, Magnolia Avenue and Maple avenues on the west and the city limits on the north.

Approximately $200,000 has been allocated for 1977 and 1978 under the program, with some spent last year. In addition, the city has applied for an additional $75,000 in federal funding for 1979.

Designed primarily for the downtown residential area which surrounds the commercial area, loans are for single family residences and one-to-four unit complexes.

It is estimated that 15 to 20 homes can be rehabilitated under the program.

Generally, homes must have some code problems, such as plumbing electrical or structural, to qualify.

Wednesday's meeting will explain the program to persons who live or own residences in the target area the types of rehabilitation loans available and how to qualify for the program. There also will be a time set aside for questions and answers.

She did intern work for the city manager of San Anselmo, focusing on efficiency and economy studies. In her $1,496 per-month post, Miss Rhodes will be responsible for analyzing Pacifica's budget and for seeking outside sources of money, such as grants.

Bradford "Skid" Hall was appointed to the Planning Commission. He served on the Hillside Review Board.

Hugh Miller, Stuart Cross and Mason Brown were reappointed to the Transportation and Safety Commission.

After hearing San Mateo County Transit District bus driver Stephen King describe the service in Pacifica as poor, the council voted to complain to SamTrans.

The council authorized spending $4,500 to make improvements on its temporary corporation yard, where city vehicles are stored and maintained.

Inventive Biochemist Says 'Yes'

Danger in Our Drinking Water?

By JOHN HUBBARD

Karel Stopka, Czechoslovakia-born biochemist who heads U.S. Ozonair Corp. in South San Francisco, has some mighty strong things to say about the water we drink.

Essentially Stopka's message is that we shouldn't be drinking it because, he contends, it fails to meet the proposed new water safety standards of the Environmental Protection Agency.

And he firmly believes he's got the answer to the problem.

As one of the fruits of nine years of research and development, Stopka's company has just put on the market a patented water purification unit for home and office use.

His new unit uses ozonation instead of chlorination.

Therein, Stopka says, lies the secret.

"One hundred years ago," he notes, "Louis Pasteur advocated that drinking water not be sterilized chemically, as with chlorine. He and other scientists in western Europe claimed that in the long run chlorine presents danger resulting from continual absorption by the human organism of infinitesimal doses of a chemical element in the molecular or ionized state. Hardening of arteries, damage to liver and kidneys were suspected."

That theory, according to Stopka, was confirmed four years ago by EPA studies.

Additionally, he says, the agency conducted analyses of water supplies in some 80 major cities across the country and found only two treatment plants were delivering drinking water which could meet its proposed standards.

Both of those two plants — one in Pennsylvania, the other in Indiana — use ozone (a condensed or polymerized form of oxygen) in their treatment process, Stopka emphasizes.

San Francisco's water system, whose chlorinated product is used throughout San Mateo County, was among those failing to meet the standards, he says.

But in San Francisco's case, he adds, the shortcomings were "marginal."

Nationwide, on the basis of statistical reports "one out of every two Americans is drinking water below the standards," Stopka declares.

"Our drinking water," he says, speaking in general terms, "is contaminated by industrial waste, pesticides, fertilizers and numerous chemical compounds, including chlorine. A large number of these chemical compounds have been identified as being carcinogenic and directly linked to cancer."

FOLLOWING LOUIS PASTEUR'S ADVICE

Karel Stopka's new water purifier uses ozone, not chlorine.

Largely as a result of the EPA findings, according to Stopka, the bottled water industry "quadrupled its business last year and literally hundreds of new bottlers are entering the market."

Ninety percent of the bottlers use the same process chain as that employed in his new purification unit, he says — ozon-ation, filtration, treatment with activated carbon.

But thanks to Stopka's patented new method of ozonation, his unit can produce treated water in 12 seconds instead of the old method's nearly 10 minutes — and apparently is also more suitable for compact operations.

Ozonair's unit comes in two models, both of which are to be marketed nationwide, probably in appliance stores. For about $590, you can buy the model which serves up treated chilled water. For another $100, you can get the model which offers both chilled and hot treated water.

"I really don't expect them to do too well in this country at the beginning," Stopka says. "Professional people and environmentalists — men and women who know the dangers of chlorination — will be the first to buy them here. But the general public's faith in chlorine is long-established and therefore will take time to overcome."

He thinks "the sky's the limit" for the unit's sales appeal in other nations, however. "We're already talking to people from Europe and South America," he says. "And there's a huge market in Mexico, where people are understandably afraid of water-borne polio virus. In Europe, of course, people have already accepted ozonation."

Stopka points out that many European cities — among them Paris, Nice, Brussels, Amsterdam and Moscow — have been treating their water with ozone for some time. Nice was the first such city; its use of ozonation dates back more than 75 years.

The initial batch of Ozonair units is now being assembled in the South San Francisco plant. Both models can be hooked into a standard electrical outlet, and both can be either directly connected to the water supply line or attached to the water tap.

Operating costs, Stopka says, are less than bottled water — about 6 cents per 1,000 gallons plus the cost of electricity.

The corporation moved into its plant here about two years ago from Canada, where much of Stopka's research was conducted. (After leaving Czechoslovakia in the late 1930s to escape the tide of Nazism, he served in the British armed forces during World War II and then settled in Montreal following the war.)

Ozonair, which Stopka terms a "pioneer of advanced ozone technology," is active in the field of municipal and industrial wastewater treatment as well as home and office water purification.

"Many prominent scientists," he says, "claim that in 10 years chlorine treatment of water in this country will be almost entirely replaced by ozone."

"The EPA is encouraging and providing funds for development of ozone treatment plants; 28 of them are already completed or in progress."

"But so far, for some mysterious reason, all of those plants are in the Midwest and East. Very little is known about ozone in California."

BART Cuts Sat. Fares

For the first four Saturdays of BART's regular Saturday service which began Jan. 7, the transit district is offering a special reduced fare.

Maximum fare for all one-way trips will be 50 cents while trips costing less than 50 cents will be on the normal fare schedule.

Along with being able to take trips from the farthest outlying points to any other point on the system for the single 50-cent fare, the same amount will also be good for sightseeing excursions around the system and return to point of entry.

BART Director John Glenn stated that this will serve as a test to determine if a single reduced fare will produce more revenue than the graduated fare.

To accommodate the special 50 cent tickets, without reprogramming the automatic fare equipment around the system, special ticket deposit boxes will be located at the exit gates just inside each station.

Patrons who hold high value tickets should purchase new tickets for Saturday trips that might normally cost more than the 50-cent maximum. Discount ticket holders should use their discount tickets for all trips.

Trains will operate from 9 a.m. to midnight. Until approximately 7 p.m. BART will provide service over three routes — Concord/Daly City, Fremont/Daly City and Richmond/Fremont at 15-minute intervals. After 7 p.m. the system will phase into normal late evening service with trains operating over two routes, Concord/Daly City and Richmond/Fremont at 2 minutes intervals.

New D.C. Arts Commission Quickly Loses Chairman

Ron Bates, an announced candidate for City Council this March, stepped down from his post as chairman of the newly-formed Daly City Arts, History and Science Commission (DCAHSC) Thursday.

Bates, a former local newspaperman, said he plans to remain on the commission but does not want to assume the responsibilities of chairman while running for city office.

In a prepared statement,

Bates explained that his decision to run "was made long after I accepted chairmanship of the commission."

He stated that it "is not nor ever has been" his intention to use the commission as a stepping stone to a higher office.

Taking over as new commission chairman is Harold Wafford. Other commission members include Belva Carroll, Lois Manbert, Earl Resch, Helen Tsai and Gilbert Tobin, vice president. City Librarian Samuel Cahndler, is the commission's director.

For its first program the commission has planned a Jan. 22 reception at Daly City Hall from 2 to 4:30 p.m. to introduce the commission members to the public. Paintings on loan from the San Mateo County Arts Council will be on display and a local high school band will provide music.

Several suggestions for projects and goals were thrown out by Chandler for the commission's consideration.

One proposal involved a request by Millbrae City

Councilwoman and Arts Commission Chairwoman Mary Griffin that Daly City and Millbrae co-sponsor a Shakespearean festival.

The famous English actor, Anthony Quail, would be invited here to perform.

The commission expressed its interest but requested more details, including how much money would be involved.

Chandler explained that the commission has very little money to work with.

He suggested the commission consider applying for state and federal grants through the California Arts Council, the National Endowment for Arts and the National Endowment for Humanities.

The commission also could consider the possibility of opening a community theater, sponsoring art exhibits and working on historical preservation in Daly City.

When the commission questioned what historical sites Daly City may have, Chandler mentioned the old depot on Washington Street, the John Daly Library and the Refuge Shack that housed San Francisco evacuees of the 1906 San Francisco earthquake and fire.

Chandler received commission permission to check into a humanities grant that would allow the city to hire a professor from San Francisco State University to teach a Saturday class at Serramonte Library on local history.

The commission's next meeting will be Feb. 2 at 7:30 p.m. at City Hall.

AT CIVIC CENTER

Charles Becker is exhibiting his newest oil paintings at Daly City Civic Center as part of a reception for the newly-appointed Daly City Arts, History and Sciences Commission. Becker's works are being displayed from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily through Jan. 30. The reception for the commission will be from 2 to 4:30 p.m. Jan. 22. Becker, a student of the internationally known artist Robert Lupeiti, is a Millbrae resident. Has won many awards and his paintings have been shown at Cal Expo, the San Mateo County Fair, La Galeria in San Mateo and in Hawaii, Boston, Denver, Dallas and Amsterdam.

SSF Adult Ed Offers Shorthand

South San Francisco Adult Education is offering Alphabetic Shorthand Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 9 to 12 at OICW, 217 East Grand Ave., South San Francisco. Students may enroll at any time and work at their own speed.

Stenographic ABC shorthand is a system of shorthand based on usual punctuation. Alphabetic shorthand is easier to learn than a symbol system of shorthand, is easier to transcribe even months after it has been written and is easier to retain for years after learning.

To complement this course, students may enrich English skills by enrolling in the Business English course from noon to 3 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays.

For further information, call South San Francisco Adult School, 589-6272 or OICW, 871-2870.

Bus-y, Bus-y SamTrans

By JOHN CURRY

The San Mateo County Transit District is beginning to look like a genuine transportation agency, recognizable on the streets wherever it goes in the four counties it now serves.

This all came about during a busy year for the rapidly-maturing district, which officially started life in mid-1976 with a motley lot of vans, buses and junk inherited from the city transit systems within San Mateo County.

Fueled by massive federal grants, the district in March ordered 74 new 35- and 40-foot urban transit buses from AM General Corp., the only manufacturer of such equipment in the country at the time. The cost, with fare boxes, passenger shelters, benches, signs, radios and other auxiliary equipment, came to about $5 million, most of that through a federal Urban Mass Transit Act grant.

Delivery began in October and the first of the new squared-off monsters began regular service in November. By year's end nearly all of them had arrived from the Indiana factory. Fifty-four more have been ordered.

The transition to all-new equipment should be completed in 1978 for the fleet of 153 buses.

Among the last survivors of the original fleet of 1976 likely will be eight lift-equipped vehicles inherited from the City of Pacifica. They now form the Redi-Wheels program for the county's handicapped and wheelchair-bound bus riders.

It wasn't easy.

Redi-Wheels went into operation last summer after repeated complaints from organizations of handicapped people that the regular buses weren't accessible to them. They demanded that all 74 of the new buses have hydraulic lifts, but the district staff countered that these mechanisms would add $10,000 to the cost of each bus and that the lifts weren't yet proven.

Twenty-four of the new crop of buses and many of those yet to come will be lift equipped, after more study indicated the lifts now offered are serviceable.

The campaign theme to get riders aboard the buses in 1977 was Expanded Service.

The district, under general manager John T. Mauro, negotiated the takeover of the half-century-old Greyhound Lines commuter service through San Mateo County. On July 2, it began operating the Greyhound routes, using Greyhound drivers and 50 Greyhound buses through a three-year purchase-of-service contract with the bus line.

The new Peninsula Mainline service took SamTrans into Santa Clara County, to Page Mill road in Palo Alto, and into downtown San Francisco for the first time.

It was thought at first by chief planner Al Cianfichi, marketing director Jim Gallagher and Mauro that San Mateo County's riders would welcome a ready link to the Daly City BART station for a fast, comfortable ride into downtown San Francisco.

Not so. They discovered in a ridership attitude survey in September that commuters don't like to transfer, by and large, and so in November some major changes in Mainline service put fewer buses on routes to the BART station and more into the City, from the Civic Center to the financial district.

If that weren't enough, the innovative SamTrans planners also undertook something that probably never had been done — regular bus service across the San Mateo-Hayward Bridge, built originally in 1927 as a short-cut from the San Francisco-Oakland ferries and enlarged in 1967 to handle the crush of commuters then filling up the Peninsula and south Alameda County by car.

The first bus went across in November, with a former go-go dancer at the wheel and happy SamTrans officials aboard.

Another unheard-of scheme for moving commuters from the county's homes to San Francisco offices was kicked off officially Jan. 1 in the shape of the new SamTrans Commute Club.

Most of 1977 was spent planning for the new service and dickering with a reluctant Southern Pacific Transportation Co. to carry it out, but with the aid of the state Public Utilities commission, an agreement was signed in early December.

By late last month some 1,900 of the 3,500 daily SP commuters in this county had signed up. The plan, funded by federal money, allows the district to buy monthly commute tickets from SP and re-sell them to commuters at a one-third discount.

This plan, it is hoped, will encourage train ridership and perhaps cut SP's claimed operating deficit on the San Francisco-San Jose commute line.

Santa Clara County also joined in the plan in December through its transit agency.

The fare subsidy — for in effect that's what it is — offsets a 25 percent commute fare increase granted SP by the state PUC in August.

But it took a determined effort by Mauro and his staff and some other regional transportation agencies this fall before the PUC hearings to forestall an SP request that it stop the commute service entirely.

The Peninsula rails are seen in the Metropolitan Transportation Committee regional planning as a vital organ in the mass transit circulation system, as much as BART or any of the bus agencies.

SamTrans has agreed and as an inducement to get people back on the trains (which carried twice as many commuters 15 years ago), is offering free transfers on its local buses to and from the train stations.

All this has added up and, the SamTrans bigwigs hope, paid off.

The publicly-owned line carried 942,068 passengers in November, twice what it had carried the previous year.

Final 1977 figures will be issued this month. They are expected to just about double the 1976 total. The goal for the first fiscal year, ending last July 1, was 7 million passengers, a figure reached and exceeded.

The five-month total for this fiscal year was 4,502,536 or 67 percent of the total ridership for the 1976-77 year.

The biggest month of 1977 was October, with 965,665 passengers boarding. That million-passenger month isn't far off now, most SamTrans officials believe.

By the end of 1977, SamTrans had become the county's most highly-visible and nearly most far-flung agency, with only isolated Pescadero not served by regular bus routes.

Only the sheriff's patrols cover more ground regularly.

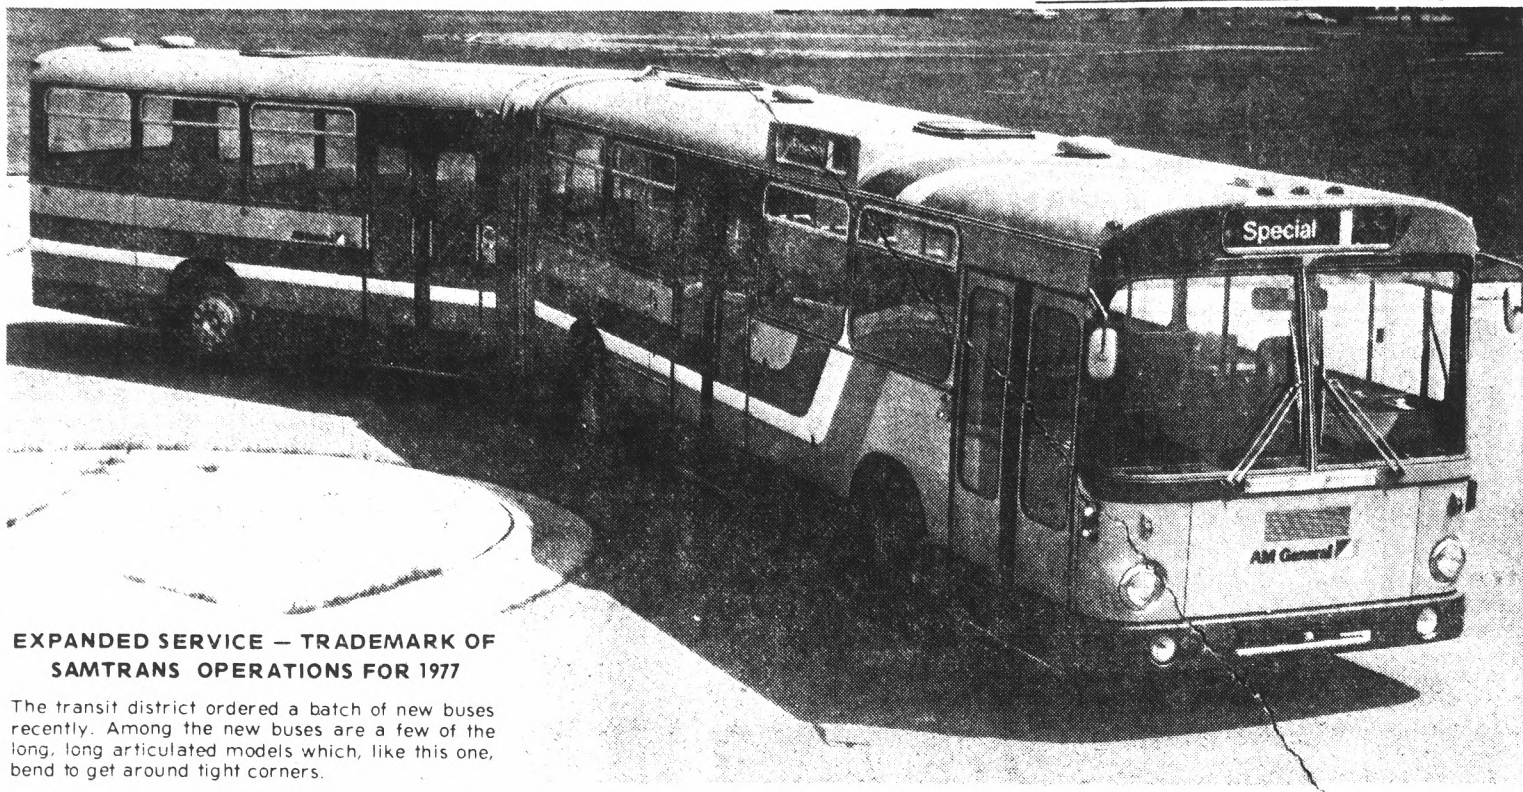

SSF Man to Stand Trial

A Superior Court trial has been scheduled for Joel Kenneth Steimle, 21, South San Francisco, charged with receiving stolen property and illegal possession of narcotics for sale.

The trial was set for Jan. 23 in Redwood City Superior Court following a preliminary hearing Friday in Northern District Court, South San Francisco.

Steimle was arrested by San Bruno Police Dec. 8 while wandering along El Camino Real across from police headquarters.

According to Police Lieut. Hugh Fraser, Steimle reportedly has been linked to money recovered in connection with a burglary at the El Rancho Inn in Millbrae.

EXPANDED SERVICE — TRADEMARK OF
SAMTRANS OPERATIONS FOR 1977

The transit district ordered a batch of new buses recently. Among the new buses are a few of the long, long articulated models which, like this one, bend to get around tight corners.

Scotty Campbell's Is Celebrity Haven

SCOTTY CAMPBELL'S co-owners are accustomed to welcoming celebrities from every part of the country. One recent holiday night Dave McElhattan and his new bride were having dinner just a few tables away from Fred LaCasse, popular Channel 4 newscaster who lives in the Almaden area of San Jose. There is an air of casual refinement and friendliness at this award-winning dinner house in Redwood City. One-item dishes are numerous at LA PINATA Mexican restaurant in downtown Burlingame. Enchilada, a tortilla filled with spicy ground beef, chicken or cheese, topped with mild chile sauce, melted cheese, and diced onions, is served with refried beans or Mexican rice, salad, and corn tortillas. JIMMY PAYER and his group will be entertaining tonight's dance crowd in a new surrounding at NICK'S restaurant-lounge, Rockaway Beach. A recent remodeling of the lounge now extends another eight feet toward the Pacific Ocean and affords more booths and cocktail tables. TERRY'S restaurants (two locations on Interstate 80 in Vallejo) offers something for everyone. A coffee shop for prompt service, a dining room for leisurely dining, comfortable cocktail lounge, and free BARNEY'S coupons near the check-out cash register for those bound for South Lake Tahoe. Famous for good food takes on meaning at VINCE'S ITALIAN and SEAFOOD restaurant, whether you partake of a dinner or a huge hamburger on French bread. Leaders in the business and political worlds are steady patrons here, and TONY LICATA is on a first-name basis with most.

COUNTRY MUSIC STAR

Ronnie Milsap, whose talents have made him one of the most award-winning artists in country music, opens a one-week engagement Thursday night in the South Shore Room at Harrah's Tahoe.

Four Fabulous Revues Nightly

FINOCCHIO'S famed night spot in San Francisco is enthralling visitors from around the world with its fabulous revues four times nightly, except Monday. The EVE-ETTES dance and sing their way through many different numbers each evening; LA VERNE CUMMINGS is a sight to behold, what with his beautiful gowns and singing voice. LORI SHANNON, VAL de VERE and RUSSELL REED provide the chuckles and smiles, and Emcee CARROLL WALLACE sets the mood for the exciting shows. CARMEN ORTEZ provides intoxicating rhythms to her own accompaniment nightly, Tuesdays through Saturdays, in the RODEWAY INN's Golden Rooster Lounge, South San Francisco. Although the pretty Latin singer gives serious thought to south-of-the-border ballads, her repertoire also includes the "now generation" sound with the electric guitar. Live Maine lobster is available at YOLANDA'S restaurant in South San Francisco. They will prepare it for you to enjoy in the dining room as a complete meal, or you may order it to take home to prepare yourself. One of the Bay Area's best salad bars is included with all dinners at LEHR'S GREENHOUSE Garden restaurant in San Francisco. It is attractively displayed and lavishly varied and includes unexpected gourmet treats like cold rice curry, shrimps in aspic, a perfect potato salad and fresh fruit.

Pizza Variety in 3 Different Sizes

Pizza at ROMANO'S Italian and Seafood restaurant, Rockaway Beach, comes in three sizes — small (10"), medium (12") and extra large (14") to eat in or take out. Thirteen different varieties from which to choose, ranging in price from $1.75 for a small cheese pizza to $5.20 for a large combination. As 1977 was a super year for the BAYHILL LOUNGE, the owners are going to do everything the same in the new year. Luncheon and cocktail business is booming right along. The TRI SOUNDS continue to draw big dance crowds in the evening. Patrons at ROSEBUD'S ENGLISH PUB, on San Francisco's Geary Street "Theater Row," do a fast double-take when they see their pretty waitress exit in one direction — and then immediately reappear on the opposite side of the dining room. It is not done with mirrors, says Manager Jim Day. They are actually two beautiful gals — identical twins Toni and Patricia. PHIL LEHR'S STEAKERY, on the lower level of the San Francisco Hilton Tower, is one of the very few fine San Francisco restaurants serving dinners 'til midnight seven days a week. It is a favorite late evening gathering spot for show biz celebrities and luminaries of the international Jet Set. Opening star on the 1978 entertainment schedule for the Celebrity Room at JOHN ASCUAGA'S NUGGET is Tennessee Ernie Ford (Feb. 2-4). Marilyn McCoo & Billy Davis, Jr., the music world's newest husband and wife combination, perform two shows nightly, except Monday, in the Venetian Room of the FAIRMONT HOTEL through Jan. 15. Danc-ing to Ernie Heckscher and his orchestra.

DAMP DEDICATION AT SKYLINE

A bronze bust of Louis Pasteur was dedicated in the Skyline College courtyard between the campus center and main theater Thursday. Left to right, Cliff Denney, College of San Mateo associate superintendent; Jean Claude Cuzzi, French consulate cultural attaché in San Francisco; Dr. James Wyatt, Skyline president; Mrs. Eleanore Nettle, San Mateo County Community College District board president; Atilio Zamora, who made the gift of the bust; and Mario Zamora, Atilio Zamora's brother and a noted Honduran sculptor, who did the bust. Atilio Zamora, of Pacifica and a Skyline graduate, made the gift in appreciation of the college's help to him in adjusting to lifestyles in the United States. Zamora chose Pasteur out of personal respect for the famed French scientist who developed the pasterurizing process.

Boys Chorus Auditions Jan. 28

The San Francisco Boys Chorus will audition boys of ages 7-12 who are interested in joining the popular San Francisco musical group. No previous experience or training is required, though a sincere interest in music and a desire to become involved in Chorus activities is necessary, according to Music Director Dr. William Ballard. It meets twice weekly and has a rigorous performance schedule ahead. Currently more than 110 boys comprise three Chorus groups — concert, intermediate and training. While there is a tuition fee for Chorus membership, scholarships are available for talented youngsters. Auditions will be Jan. 28 at St. Francis Lutheran Church, 152 Church St., San Francisco. Audition appointments may be made by phoning 431-5450.

Deaths

Pacifican, Age 105, Succumbs

A gentleman who loved to sing, who enjoyed life and laughter and recommended good hard work as a recipe for living a long and happy lifetime died on Saturday.

He was 105 and the pride of Pacifica: Carl Holmstrom, who made his home at 308 Fairway Drive the past 15 years.

Interviewed Nov. 4 on his 105th birthday, Holmstrom decided against going back to Duluth, Minn., for a huge family reunion. Having done that on his 100th birthday, he decided against the trek after remembering the bitter cold and snow of the upper Midwest.

This birthday he spent quietly with his immediate family, and sat on the front porch enjoying his favorite rocking chair and basking in the sunshine.

A native of Roslott, Sweden, Holmstrom came to the United States in 1911 to find out for himself if all the good things his brothers kept writing him about America were true. He said, "They were. Life has been good."

Holmstrom took three years to build up a good business as a blacksmith and then, in 1914, sent for his wife and six children. He loved recounting their stories of their harrowing voyage skirting north seas icebergs to avoid German submarines.

Known in Duluth as the "singing blacksmith," Holmstrom would sing at the slightest urging. He particularly delighted in joining in singing the "Star Spangled Banner" at the opening of ball games.

"What was his secret of a long life?" Holmstrom, who had been asked the question thousands of times, would always smile and say, "work hard — and enjoy life." He did both, retiring at the age of 72.

He retained his good health and general activity until the very end. Holmstrom had one deep aversion — he hated to go to doctors. His daughter-in-law finally persuaded him to have his first physical examination at the age of 92. The amazed physician kept insisting there was some mistake about Holmstrom's age, and said he appeared to be a man of 82, 10 years younger than he was.

Holmstrom ate whatever was set in front of him. He had no food fads or preferences. Just good healthy food, that was enough for him.

He died peacefully at Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City on Saturday.

Funeral arrangements are under the direction of the Nauman & Lincoln Chapel-by-the-Sea in Pacifica, and are expected to be held in Duluth, Minn., tentatively today.

He was the father of Carl Holmstrom Jr., Everett and Jennie Holmstrom and Signe Eckstrom, all of Duluth, Minn.; and Kenneth Holmstrom of South Dakota. He was also the father of the late Hugo Holmstrom of Pacifica who died last October at the age of 74.

Holmstrom is survived by 12 grandchildren, 18 great-grandchildren, and nieces, nephews and many other relatives in this country and in Sweden.

GWENDOLINE TRIGGAS
Funeral services were held Friday for Mrs. Gwendoline M. (Athena) Triggas at the Chapel of the Greek Memorial Park in Colma. She died Jan. 2 at St. Mary's Hospital in San Francisco. She was 72.

A native of Plymouth, England, she had lived in San Francisco for 46 years and came to Burlingame 19 years ago.

She was the widow of the late Costas Triggas and mother of the later William Triggas. Survivors include a son, James Triggas of South San Francisco, her daughter, Mrs. Audrey Boggs of Burlingame and nine grandchildren.

Services were held under the direction of the Mission Chapels of San Francisco.

The family prefers contributions to the Peninsula Oral School for the Deaf, 3560 Farmhill Blvd., Redwood City, 94061.

Samuel Chandler

Ever hear of the Great Mother?
She is the superman of womanhood — oops, pardon the gender of my stupid words, Oh Great Mother — who dashes through the sky to assure anguished females that there is a better day coming.

THE GREAT MOTHER is all powerful. She can answer the cries of 11,000,843 women every five minutes. She vanquishes the foes of womanhood with graceful gestures and swanlike movements of her enormous sari.

You may not think you have seen the Great Mother, but you have. She is found in a multitude of places even though you may not recognize her. The breast, womb, heart, chicken soup, Red Cross nurse, milk of human kindness, security blanket — all these denote her hovering presence as she croons into the ears of the liberated woman of the 1970's. "Never again will you walk alone and in anguish."

You can meet the Great Mother on page 199 of "The New Woman's Survival Sourcebook" by Susan Rennie and Kirsten Grimstad (Knopf, $5.) On page 228 you will learn once and forever that "Women are: courageous, aggressive, strong, logical, intelligent, constructive, creative and independent human beings." On page 221 you will find a checklist to help men improve their anti-sexist quotient and to help women evaluate their men. From page 182 you learn that there was no sexism in the teaching of Jesus. But many churchmen built their lives on two formulas that must be driven from human minds forever: (male - mind - reason - good; female - body - unreason - bad.)

"The New Woman's Survival Sourcebook" is a bibliography that's different from and more exciting than any bibliography that I have ever seen. It contains listings in 15 fields of women's endeavor. These range from the work of housewives, teachers, union women, prostitutes, etc., to the lifestyles of single parents, non-parents and older women.

THERE IS a section on violence against women wherein may be found books that tell how to use the law for protection; how to avoid rape; and what the rape victim should know. There are listings of books on sexism in education and on poetry, painting and craft arts. One section lists periodicals that are published for women.

"The New Women's Survival Sourcebook" is a valuable tool for women who know that the women's movement is "something absolutely new, unique historically, and finally so life-enhancing it doesn't lead to a static or doomed notion of the universe."

With a shove from the Great Mother, the publishers of America are turning out hundreds of books for the "new woman."

A LOOK at "Books In Print" lists a whole series called "The New Women Series." There are "New Women in Medicine," "New Women in the Media," "New Women in Social Sciences," and "New Women in Politics." Each is written to indoctrinate girls from the fourth grade to the 12th in the business of being new women.

"New Women-New Earth: Sexist Ideologies and Human Liberation" was written in 1975 by Rosemary R. Ruether. "New Women: Attitude, Behavior and Self Image" appears in a paperback edition and may be found in college bookstores. "New Women's Theater: Ten Plays by Contemporary American Women" is a 1977 publication from Random House.

So, New Women, arise and read about yourself. As the Great Mother would say, "Don't walk alone in anguish."

CHAIRWOMAN

Mrs. Robert Drucker will chair the 24th annual Westlake Catholic Women's fashion show and luncheon Feb. 11 in the Grand Ballroom of the Fairmont Hotel. Proceeds will benefit Our Lady of Mercy building fund. For more details, see Louanne Heath's column on this page.

If you have been wondering where the Westlake Senior Citizens Club is meeting these days, Mrs. Ernestine Vetter would like you to know that on Wednesdays during January and February the club meetings will be in the Westlake Community Center, 145 Lake Merced Blvd.

The club members are very happy about one of the Christmas activities they were able to finance. Just prior to Christmas the club president, Mrs. Millie Machen, and Mrs. Loretta Bofford were able to present Father Floyd of the St. Anthony's Dining Room with a check for $220 to help defray the cost of the dining room's annual Christmas dinner. The members of the club have worked all year long on a continuing program designed to swell the fund for the dining room on a weekly basis and the $220 was an accumulation of monies donated by almost everyone in the group.

MRS. JAMES MORINO reminds parents that any day is a good day to bring eager young swimmers to the Westmoor High School pool to try out for the Daly City Dolphins Swim Team.

Youngsters only need to be able to swim the length of the pool twice using any stroke.

MRS. ROBERT BRIZUELA, the publicity chairperson for the Daly City Civic Ballet Co., notes that the company will sponsor an "Attic Sale" on Saturday, Jan. 28.

The sale, which will be a benefit for the winter ballet, will be in the building at 1 Washington St. in Daly City between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Mrs. Alice Solomon is chairing the sale.

SPRING must be coming for word is out that the fashion show and luncheon committee at Our Lady of Mercy Church is busy getting programs printed and decorations assembled for the annual Westlake Catholic Women's big event in the Fairmont Hotel.

Mrs. Michael Carman, the publicity person for the group, reports that Mrs. Robert Drucker and Mrs. Michael Nevin, the chairpersons, have elected to hold the fashion show on Saturday, Feb. 11 in the Grand Ballroom of the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco.

Members of the fashion show committee include Mrs. Richard Calliani and Mrs. George Pietro, reservations; Mrs. Robert Reich and Mrs. Charles Vanocini, investments; Mrs. John Hughes and Mrs. John Lauderdale, door prizes; Mrs. John Loughran and Mrs. Edward LeBlanc, hostess; Mrs. James Rainey and Mrs. Sal Machi, decorations; Mrs. Joseph Vollett and Mrs. William Meyers, programs; and Mrs. Byron Davenport and Mrs. Robert Markey, models.

Tickets for the luncheon will go on sale Jan. 28 in the parish hall at Our Lady of Mercy church.

Further information about reservations may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Galliani or Mrs. San Pietro.

BROTHER McTIGUE, S. J. of the University of San Francisco was the guest speaker last evening when the members of the Riordan Guild met for the first time this year.

Mrs. Paul Drews, publicity persons for the guild, reminds members that contributions are being accepted for "The Christ Child Layette."

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks.

Happiness is the birthday song . . . or blowing out all your candles . . . or when you're young, just being surprised in little ways. So when a birthday rolls around, proclaim it the birthday child's day — "Jane Jones Day" all day long, and start with tiny presents at the breakfast table. For the birthday cake surprise later in the day, try cupcakes. They're pretty, personal and practical. Especially baked in no-wash, paper-lined muffin cups. To frost cupcakes quickly, swirl cake tops lightly in a bowl of fluffy-type frosting — and see how they peak. Now for a cupcake recipe that's sure to make your kitchen happiness headquarters.

VELVET CRUMB CUPCAKES

- 1 1/2 cups prepared biscuit baking mix
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1/2 cup cold water or milk
- 2 tablespoons shortening
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Beat the one and one-half cups biscuit mix, one-half cup sugar, one egg, one-half cup cold water or milk, two tablespoons shortening and one teaspoon of vanilla in a large mixer bowl on low speed scraping bowl frequently, 1/2 minute. Beat on medium speed 4 minutes. Pour into paperlined medium muffin cups, filling about 1/3 full. Bake until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean, about 15 minutes; cool. Frost if desired. About 16 cupcakes.

Cupcake Clue: Use medium-sized ice cream scoop to put cupcake batter in muffin tins.

Decorating ideas? Almost anything goes. Frost cupcakes and decorate with crushed peppermint candy, animal crackers, gumdrops, chocolate sprinkles or colored sugar. Or try these ideas for children's cupcakes.

Chocolate-mint Cupcakes: Immediately after removing cupcakes from oven, top each with a chocolate covered mint patty. When the patty melts, spread lightly for marbled mint frosting.

Little Clown Cupcakes: Make faces on frosted cupcakes with bits of candied fruit.

Porcupine Cupcakes: Stick peanut halves or slivered almonds into frosted cupcakes.

AAMCO Suit Settled

A $40,000 settlement has been reached with AAMCO Transmission, Inc., and two of its Bay Area repair facilities, it has been announced by the Bureau of Automotive Repair.

The settlement arose from a civil suit alleging the two shops charged customers for repairs not performed, unnecessary replacement of parts and unnecessary service.

The action was filed against James Steward, franchisee and owner of the AAMCO Transmission shop at 1470 Industrial Way, Redwood City, and Sidney Margoles, franchisee and owner of the AAMCO Transmission shop at 7360 Mission St., Daly City.

"Without admitting the validity of the complaint, the two shop owners have agreed to the payment of $40,000 each and an injunction against future violations," said Bureau Chief Robert N. Wiens. "Additionally, AAMCO Transmissions, Inc., of Bridgeport, Pa., the franchisor of the named repair facilities, has agreed to pay $20,000 and monitor its franchisees in the future."
